Q.1 In recent days David Cameron has used the UK's veto to prevent changes to the European Union that other EU leaders proposed as a way of tackling the Eurozone crisis, saying that these were not in Britain's national interest. Now Eurozone countries and those who want to join the Eurozone in the future will have to reach a separate agreement without the UK on measures aimed at saving the Euro. How far do you agree or disagree with the following statements?

SummaryBase: All respondents

	Statements
	a) David Cameron was right to exercise Britain's veto in this case	b) David Cameron's use of the veto will reduce the influence of the UK inside the European Union	c) David Cameron's use of the veto weakens the prospect of a UK economic recovery	d) David Cameron's use of the veto weakens the prospect of an economic recovery across the rest of Europe	e) David Cameron's use of the veto will protect the City of London's position as an international financial centre	f) David Cameron's use of the veto shows that he is a Prime Minister willing to stand up for Britain in its relations with the rest of the EU	g) David Cameron only used the veto because of the pressure he was under from Eurosceptic Conservative MPs	h) David Cameron's use of the veto makes it less likely that the Conservative-Liberal Democrat Coalition will survive until May 2015 when the next General Election is due to be held

Q.1 In recent days David Cameron has used the UK's veto to prevent changes to the European Union that other EU leaders proposed as a way of tackling the Eurozone crisis, saying that these were not in Britain's national interest. Now Eurozone countries and those who want to join the Eurozone in the future will have to reach a separate agreement without the UK on measures aimed at saving the Euro. How far do you agree or disagree with the following statements?

h) David Cameron's use of the veto makes it less likely that the Conservative-Liberal Democrat Coalition will survive until May 2015 when the next General Election is due to be held
