Table 10

Q.4 Even if you self-fund your own care, you are still able to claim state benefits (e.g. state pension and attendance allowance). If you have a disability severe enough that you need someone to help look after you, attendance allowance can help with any extra costs. How much money (in pounds), per week, do you think is the most the government would contribute to your care costs through both the state pension and attendance allowance?

Q.4 Even if you self-fund your own care, you are still able to claim state benefits (e.g. state pension and attendance allowance). If you have a disability severe enough that you need someone to help look after you, attendance allowance can help with any extra costs. How much money (in pounds), per week, do you think is the most the government would contribute to your care costs through both the state pension and attendance allowance?
